ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

LANCASTER AND VICINITY.

AHEAD OF TIME.

We send THE RECORD to its readers two days ahead of schedule time this week. This is done for several reasons. In the first place, we are crowded with job work which must be ready for customers by first of the year. In the second place, it is our rule to have every machine in the office a complete overhauling and cleaning once a week. The presses are taken apart every cog and bearing soaked in kerosene and carefully brushed and oiled. We have the best lot of pressmen in central Kentucky and a blind can see the importance of taking care of them. It requires the skill of a watch-maker and the patience of a saint to clean and properly adjust a printing press. Lastly, but by no means the least reason, is the fact that our books must also be overhauled and the lists cleaned. There are several names on the list that will require a liberal use of concentrated lye to put in decent shape, but they will be "detached" and sent to the "factory," i. e., the Publishers Collecting Agency, Chicago. As most of this work falls to the lot of ye editor, it will require the four remaining days of the week to complete it. We desire to state here that THE RECORD is very grateful to those citizens who have stood by and to those merchants who have given us job work. The majority of Lancaster merchants and business men patronize THE RECORD office, but there are some who think themselves above having work done here, (yet they think Lancaster people's money is all right when coming their way). We realize the perfect right this latter class have for sending work to the city, but the rub comes when they want THE RECORD to print and make for them. Send your work where you please, but kindly let those same printers do your song and dance turns also. What's sauce for the goose is extra good sauce for the gander.

Here's hoping that every reader of THE RECORD will have both socks filled to the high-water mark with joys unspeakable, and that in their voyage through the new year they will be blessed with peace, health and plenty.

Business For Sale.

Having made arrangements to engage in other business, will sell my tire stock of General Merchandise, storehouse and dwelling at cost. Anyone wishing a good bargain can secure one here. C. C. Becker, Bryansville.

Will Have A "Black List."

A Richmond physician says in the Clinician that he will prepare and have printed a list of those persons in Madison county who never pay their doctors. No class of men do more work and get less pay than do the hard-working givers of the pill, and if they all should adopt the Richmond man's plan, it would doubtless prove beneficial in other localities.

Harding & Miller Music Co.

The strong combination of Harding & Miller and Harding & Riehm, the largest line of pianos and organs in central states, lowest prices, easiest terms and best instruments in the world. Business booming. If I am too busy to talk to you, leave your order with E. W. Harris, North West corner Public Square, where you will find samples of our goods for inspection. Geo. M. Overman, Salesman.

The Price Raised.

We have received notice from the Courier-Journal that beginning January 1st, the twice-a-week edition will be sent for one dollar a year, instead of fifty cents, as heretofore. This is the best city paper published in the south, and we have sent in a great many names for it. By special arrangements, we can send it to any of our subscribers who pay for THE RECORD in advance at $1.50 for the two papers. In other words, if you pay for THE RECORD in advance you can get the twice-a-week Courier-Journal for fifty cents. Read the ad on another page. If you will give us the money so we can get it to Louisville before the first of the month, you will get the two papers for $1.25, a saving of a quarter.

Fast Train.

At a meeting of the officials concerned, held in Cincinnati this week, the time schedule for the new train service from Chicago to St. Augustine, in connection with the Q. & C., was made out and arrangements completed for the beginning of the service on January 14. The schedule time from Chicago to St. Augustine will be thirty-two hours, the fastest ever put down in a time table. The train is to run solid, and will consist of a baggage car, dining car, observation car and sleepers. The service is to be daily, except Sunday. At Cincinnati the Q. & C. will take the train, making the run to Chattanooga, 335 miles in nine hours, a faster time than is now on any Q. & C. schedule. It is needless to say that the train will pass Danville in a blue streak. It will halt at Lexington at 10.35 p. m. going southward. Danville Advocate.

For Sale.

My modern eight room residence, all necessary outbuildings and improvements, with eight acres of land attached, well watered, and an abundance of fruit. Possession given January 1st. Mrs. Jessie Walden.

We have every day bargains. We don't jump up in a great hurry and yell "Bargains" every few months. We always have 'em. We believe bargains are a good thing to keep around the house, so come in any day and see what you can do at our store. J. Joseph.

Lookout for Brown.

Ernest G. Brown is out collecting for THE RECORD and will see every man owing the paper. Please bear in mind that these subscriptions are a small matter to the individuals owing them, but in the aggregate they keep this establishment going. Its pretty hard to send a paper at a dollar a year and then have to employ a collector, but we must have cash to keep the machinery running.

Please Read This.

We have the best, rich, full flavored coffee, also tea, the finest flavor and strength we could select. We have candies, nuts, prunes, peaches, apricots, cereals, molasses, baking powder, beans, figs, tobacco and cigars, oranges, apples, extracts, canned goods, and rice. Why not buy some of our choice flour, it will fit mightily well as a Christmas gift, also meal, etc. In fact we keep every thing usually found in a first class grocery, and our motto is to sell cheap, for cash. Would appreciate a call from all my friends, will do you right. Robt. Underwood.

281 From 1 to 5.00.

That might be a riddle or an invitation to a church fair, but it isn't. It's a concise way of calling public attention to the fact that The Royal Tailors, of Chicago, have authorized us to reduce prices on 281 Fall and Winter Patterns all the way from $1 to $5 per suit—and we've done it. Our prices on this high grade tailoring were very low before, but now they afford absolutely the best investment a man ever made in a way of dress. Come and see these patterns; we have them all; costs you nothing to look and but little to buy—and our guarantee is your safety-valve.

[And here's a friendly tip: They won't last always.] J. C. Hemphill.

The Tables Turned.

A Lancaster man, who generally goes to his place of business before his better nine-tenths arises, or, rather, used to, very fond of tying knots in her apparel, filling her shoes with coal, etc., before taking his departure. Last week he thought it would be great fun to place her jewelry in a shoe, and proceeded to place therein several rings, bracelets, a brooch, and several other articles. The shoes happened to be at the house on approval, and the good lady, instead of putting them on, tied them up and returned them to the store. It was not long until the diamonds were missed and the cry of burglars raised. The neighbors were called in, and the foxy old head-of-the-family sent for in great haste. He thought his dwelling to be on fire, and ran all the way home. Explanations were quickly made, he hurried to the shoe store, and registered a solemn oath to never again try a practical joke.

Crockery For Sale.

Mrs. H. Singleton has rented out the front rooms of her house, but will continue to keep all kinds of crockery for sale at low prices. She will continue to keep the stock at her residence on Lexington street.

A Good Show.

Barlow & Wilson's minstrels played to a large house in this city Friday night. They gave the best minstrel show ever seen in Lancaster, and the audience was delighted with the entire program. The proprietors are old hands at the business, and know just what to get to please the public. The street band was bum.

Marble Works.

Mr. S. McGuire, who has been engaged in business at Berea, has rented rooms from R. A. Stone and will open a first-class marble works in this city. He comes well recommended as a splendid workman. He is strictly sober and understands every detail of the work. This is an enterprise that ought to pay in Lancaster, and will do so if the people will only keep their money at home.

Week Of Prayer.

The "Week of Prayer" will be observed in Lancaster. In nearly all cities the Week of Prayer has come to be quite a feature in the work of the churches at the beginning of the year. The pastors of Lancaster have gotten together and decided to hold union services, beginning Monday night, Jan. 7. Meetings will be held at each of the churches. Full program will be given in next issue.

A Splendid Paper.

The Christmas edition of the Lexington Herald was a marvel of beauty and reflects great credit upon the enterprising publishers. The Herald is one of the best dailies in the south, and is strictly up-to-date in every department. The editorials alone are worth many times the price of subscription. These are written by the Hon. W. C. P. Breckinridge, who has more brains than any ten of the average men of today. THE RECORD congratulates his hustling neighbor, and wishes it many more years of prosperity and smooth sailing.

Minstrels Gave an Excellent Entertainment.

Gus Sun's American minstrels delighted a large audience at Rosedale opera house Thanksgiving evening. The first part was a continuous vocal innovation and drew forth the hearty applause of the spectators. Most of the vocalists were compelled to respond to encores. Henry J. Yorkey's song, "I Never Left Him," was undoubtedly the humorous hit of the evening and he was compelled to add a verse or two to satisfy the demands of those who "wanted more." As Ludwig Budweiser Yorkey was imitable as leader of the band. Lynch, the king of the wire, gave an excellent performance and was vociferously applauded for his work on the slack wire. Gus Sun's juggling act was better than ever. His work was gracefully done and he seemed to know just when to call forth the applause of the onlookers. The laughable novelty, "Watch the Baby," gave Fred P. Howard and John E. Ward a splendid opportunity of showing their ability as comedians and furnished a finale to an excellent entertainment. Gus Sun and his company can feel sure of a large audience whenever they elect to return to Chambersburg. Daily (Pa.) Herald.

Happy Children.

The children in Miss Murphy's room at the Graded School enjoyed a Christmas tree Friday just before closing for the holidays. Every child was remembered by old Santa, and the occasion will be long remembered by the little ones.

A Pretty Dance.

Miss Reese closed her dancing school Saturday night by giving an enjoyable hop, which several outsiders had the pleasure of attending. The pupils learned rapidly under her supervision, and the ease and grace with which they sped over the floor was quite noticeable. Miss Reese is a young lady of rare beauty and many accomplishments, and her stay in this city was greatly enjoyed by the society folk.

To Soothe His Feelings.

Randall Cook, of Lincoln county, has sued Editor W. P. Walton for the sum of $25,000 damages by reason of the publication in the Interior Journal of an article regarding a trip Cook made to Frankfort during the exciting times at the state capital. Its out of reason to expect an editor to employ detectives to ferret out the truth of every little 2x4 item publishing, and they have to take lots for granted in getting out copy. But all newspaper men are willing to make quick correction of any mistake, and they always do so when a person has enough fairness to go to the editor like a man and tell him of his mistake. But some people are prone to go to law, and when coached by some jockey lawyers, take advantage of every opportunity to do so.

A Sensible Girl.

The Louisville Times prints the following letter, written by a leading society girl, of that city:

MY DEAR SANTA CLAUS: I am going to hang up my stocking as I did before I came out. It is larger than it was then, but I am counting on your generosity to fill it as in former days, but, like my stocking, my desires have expanded. Oh, if I could just wake up and find a real live Duke I would be so happy Christmas, though I am afraid papa wouldn't be overjoyed for Dukes are expensive luxuries in a family. But it does grieve me to see the Cincinnati girls getting Dukes right along, while the biggest game matrimonially a Louisville girl has landed was a lord.

However, if I can't have a Duke you might send me a bunch of untitled beaux, but please have them assorted. I don't want them all of the kindergarten class. One old chappy of the farther kind will be enough of his style. Don't put in any of the first-side companion variety—those fellows who seek your society for the sake of a cozy corner in your parlor at the expense of papa, who has to foot the gas and coal bills. Then there are the chappies who have passed their dancing days, and try to charm you with their "hot air" talk. They are even more objectionable than the first-side-companion variety. I want them old enough to have something in their heads, but yet young enough not to be shaky on their legs, for you know I like to dance.

In these days a girl in society is not in the whirl unless she has a whole staff of beaux. But it seems it makes little difference whether they are stupid or not; it's numbers that count, and after all I may be asking too much, if not too many. STILL A BUD.

Said Mrs. Wilson Wade, of Garrard county, "I owe my life to Dr. C. M. Kennedy, now located in Lancaster. Last April I had six successive hemorrhages of the lungs. I became so weak I could not turn in the bed, had one of the best doctors in Nicholasville, but of no avail. Dr. Kennedy checked them with one treatment, and after a course of treatment I feel perfectly well and am doing my own work. I consider it a miracle, as it was done without drugs or medicines. He treats any and all diseases the same way. I know of many other remarkable cures he has made. Give him a call." Office next door to post office.

Christmas of the Rich and Poor.

"We have an idea that Christmas as they are celebrated in homes of great wealth must be ideal," writes Edward Bok in a plea for a simpler life—a simpler celebration of Christmas—in the December Ladies' Home Journal. "Yet often, as the actual fact, no more lonesome Christmas days are spent anywhere than in these homes of plenty. Riches on Christmas are often like sweet bells out of tune. Nothing was simpler than the first Christmas Day, and its strongest appeal to our natures, although we do not always know it, is because it was so simple. Nothing is so fatal to our deepest and truest enjoyment as the realization that we can have whatever we will simply for the wishing or asking. All value is lost then. It is a hard truth for those who have little to believe that the greatest happiness of life is with them; that it is not with those who have abundance. The more we have the less we actually enjoy it. There is a law of compensation that comes in there. The lives of those who have abundance are vastly more complicated than are the lives of those who have little. We are wont to say, 'Oh, well, I'd like to try once having all the money I wanted.' Thousands have said the same thing only to have their wish come true, and to realize that happiness lay not along the way they thought. It is strange how the poor envy the greater and fuller happiness of those who have less. The woman of simplest means is the happiest woman on earth if she only knew it. She is happiest because her life is simplest, and, therefore, truest."

The Day We Celebrate.

By common consent, all christian nations celebrate the 25th of December as the birthday of the Saviour. Pope Julius had an investigation made A. D. 350, when it was definitely agreed that such was the date. The custom of decorating and presenting gifts, with the compliments of the season, is a cherished one in which all mankind delights, and this feeling of joy that pervades the christian world, is a potent argument in favor of the divinity of Him upon whom all of our hopes for eternal happiness are based. The emblems, the simple loaf and cup to commemorate His death, also bear the impress of the super-natural. Had He been a human hero, the chiseled marble would have been erected to His memory. As a nation we celebrate the birthday of our heroes with pomp, and in gorgeous array. If we thus celebrate the birth of Washington, for saving our colonies from British oppression, how much more should we celebrate the birth of One who came to save the whole world from the oppression of Satan? Surely all should look reverently upon the day, and spend it in meek and joyous festivities and songs of praise.

The custom of engaging in dissipation and unholty practices should be disregarded, as unfit for that, or any other day. It should be a day of smiles and good cheer, calling forth the higher and nobler impulses of our nature, and doing all we can to alleviate suffering humanity and gladden the hearts of the unfortunate and the afflicted; for, in this, we would imitate His blessed character, and, in a measure, make the world better and happier.

His mission was one of love, and our celebration of His birth should be in acts and words of love. The firing of guns and the clash of arms may celebrate the birth of the military chieftain, but not of one who opposed force, and who commanded His followers to put up his sword, and to resist not evil. He is to the spiritual world, just what the orb of day is to the physical world — without His teaching and hallowed influence the spirit would become contaminated with evil influences, and lose its beauty and power, as darkness destroys the beauty and vitality of vegetation. This beautifying effect of christian influence is manifested in national as well as individual affairs. We see christian nations advanced in everything that exalts and embellishes civilized life, while Pagan nations grope in darkness and indulge in the superstition of the dark ages.

So merry Christmas is upon us, and let us take a pride in celebrating it as the most important season in the annals of history. As the season which sheds an effulgent beam of light through the dark and gloomy tomb, and points to a higher and more glorious existence. Our merchants have furnished prizes to suit the taste and the purse of everybody. Christmas trees have been filled with prizes for the rich and the poor, and the country is happier. It is good to mellow our souls by deeds of kindness and words of love. It brings us nearer to one another and especially nearer to God and the meek and lowly Nazarene.

The very meaning of Christmas is self-sacrifice, self-denial. Gifts that cost us nothing do not bring the real Christmas joy. The giving should be cheerful, for the Lord only loves a cheerful giver. The sordid grudging and mercenary element should be entirely eliminated, and the giver should love the recipient as God loved the world when He gave His son that we might be redeemed from the blighting touch of sin.

MARKSBURY.

Mrs. B. A. Copass, Mrs. Mack Elliott, and Miss Lizzie Marksbury, Committee.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has seen fit in His goodness to call unto Himself our president, Mrs. Alice Rout Scott, and whereas, she was one of our charter members, more than once our president, and always one of our most faithful workers and earnest supporters, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in her death we recognize a great loss to us here on earth; that we nevertheless bow in humble submission to the will of God, our Father,—that we rejoice and praise Him, that she gave such glorious testimony in her dying hour, to the saving power of the blood of Christ, and that her last words should be those of such infinite comfort and hope, as "I will soon be in Heaven."

The death of Mrs. D. T. Scott cast a gloom over this community. Mrs. Scott became a member of the Forks of Dix river Baptist church quite early in life, and has ever since worshipped there: she was truly loyal to the end,—she will be greatly missed in the church and community. She leaves a husband and many relatives to mourn her loss,—but surely they mourn not as those who have no hope. The Ladies' Aid Society, of which she was president, submit the following resolutions to be printed in the Record:

MT. HEBRON.

Items of interest are very scarce in this vicinity.

Mr. John Jackson sold some fat hogs to J. B. Bourne.

Mrs. McWilliams who has been very low with rheumatism is convalescing.

Mr. Al Back sold his hemp seed crop to Mr. John Dunn for $1.60 per bushel.

Mrs. Rosa Padgett died at her home in Jessamine county last Friday: she leaves a husband and five little children to mourn her loss.

Prevented A Tragedy

Timely information given Mrs. Geo. Long, of New Straesville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00 Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at McRoberts drug store.

The Best Plaster

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism. One application gives relief. For sale by R. E. McRoberts druggist.

When a man gets married, it's about the only time in his life that he has on new clothes all through.

How To Cure Croup

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amelia, Duchess county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by R. E. McRoberts.

Incompatibility of temper occurs when both parties have the same kind of temper, and plenty of it.

Among the tens of thousands who have Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for colds and la grippe during the past few years, to our knowledge, not a single case has resulted in pneumonia. Thus Whitfield & Co., 240 Wabash avenue, Chicago, one of the most prominent retail druggists in that city, in speaking of this, says: "We recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for la grippe in many cases, as it not only gives prompt and complete recovery, but also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia." For sale by R. E. McRoberts, Druggist.

Some of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Farra concluded to have a little fun at their expense, and get even with the groom, who has always been ready to play such pranks on his friends. The trunks were left at the post office the night before the wedding, and these mischievous friends proceeded to decorate them with old shoes, ribbons, candy hearts, and a number of placards telling the public who they were. John did not see the trunks until reaching Danville, but about the time he arrived there, the odor of brimstone was very strong even in Lancaster, and the presumption is that he showered blessings rich and rare upon the perpetrators of the joke.

Rev. Henry Faulconer returned to Hillsboro, Ohio, Friday morning. He never knew a preacher to have more friends among the young men than has he. They call him "Parson," a nickname, and joke with him as though he was one of the boys. He certainly has good influence with the young men, and knows how to get at them.

INDIAN UNDERSTOOD THE LAW

The Poor Red Man Embarrassed a Chicago Attorney Who Went Hunting.

Two Chicago attorneys who were enjoying a hunting and fishing trip in northern Wisconsin recently chanced to stop over night at Tomahawk, a village on the Indian reservation. While at the hotel a gun belonging to one of the lawyers was stolen. The hunter made inquiries, and became satisfied that a drunken Indian, who acted as a hostler at the hotel, had taken it. The lawyer charged the red man with the theft, and finally the Indian confessed that he knew where the gun was. After a great deal of persuasion, he named a certain place where it was hidden, says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

The owner of the gun, accompanied by the Indian, went after the weapon, but it was not there. The lawyer then had a warrant issued for the arrest of the Indian, and had service made. This had its effect, and the red man, calling the attorney to one side, agreed to give up the gun for a pint of whiskey. It happened the hunters had several bottles of good old rye among their stores, and a pint bottle was turned over to the Indian, who soon produced the gun. But the constable who held the warrant insisted on taking his prisoner to jail.

"What for? White man got um gun," said the Indian.

"Yes," replied the officer, "but you stole it, and you must go to prison."

"Put Injun in cabbage, tell big white chief white man give Injun whiskey; white man pay big fine, and go to prison."

This was a new wrinkle. That was the law. The Chicago lawyer was liable to be taken to Madison before the United States court. The attorney interceded for the red man, who, seeing this, declared:

"Let Injun go, not nuff. Give Injun money, he no tell," and he stuck to it that he would inform if not paid, and finally, as the cheapest way out of the difficulty, the Chicago man paid the Indian $10.

Have Wills of Their Own.

That the women of China do not lack courage is proved by the fact that they sometimes seek suicide as relief from unhappy marriages, and ungenerous husbands would frequently be murdered were it not for special punishments, "ignominious and slow," devised for all women who should attempt homicide. The mere existence of this law proves the necessity for it. Again, not long ago, 15 young girls of Canton threw themselves into the river to escape from marrying the husbands chosen for them.—Montreal Sun.

To Let Signs in Mexico.

A newspaper or sheet of paper tied on a window or balcony of a dwelling house in Mexico indicates that there are rooms to let in the house.—N. Y. Sun.

A Cheap Deliverance.

"Well, you look happy for a man who has just been 'touched.' Didn't I see you give a dollar to that fellow you were talking with a minute ago?"

"You did. I am happy, too. He told me he would pay the money back to-morrow."

"Oh!"

"But it isn't his promise that makes me joyful. Oh no! He has bored me nearly to death during the past year or more with stories about his boy and by repeating to me what he considered the child's funny sayings. Now this is all ended forever. After this he will pretend not to see me when we meet. And I'd have gladly made it five dollars, if he had wanted that much."—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Tear for a Pain

Only expectant mothers, or those who have borne children, know the full meaning of these words.

Every woman should tell every other woman about "MOTHER'S FRIEND," that wonderful remedy that dispels all pain incident to childbirth. There is nothing like it.

PRO. S. MORTON, of Hartford, Conn., says: "Too much can't be said in praise of 'Mother's Friend.' My wife used only two bottles before confinement and was in labor but twenty minutes. She is doing splendidly, thanks to 'Mother's Friend.'"

Sold by all drug stores, or will be sent by express paid on receipt of price, $1.00. Book entitled "Motherhood," containing interesting facts for all ages of the gentler sex, mailed free upon application. Send your friend's address.

LARGER GROWTH CHILDREN

Marvelous Mechanical Toys That Men of Wealth Have to Amuse Them.

There are many persons who never outlive their love for toys in some form. The largest and most elaborate toy in the world is in the possession of a wealthy Baltimore man. It is nothing more, or less than an automatic landscape—a large sweep of country, villages, churches, windmills, lakes, rivers, and all the details of country scenery.

When this mammoth toy is put in motion, boats dart here and there across the lake, pulled by lusty rowers; carts lumber along the roads, the miller mounts a ladder, carrying sacks of grain on his back; church bells ring and children play in the village streets; a large Ferris wheel turns slowly round with its burden of aerial passengers, and trains shriek into tunnels and over bridges. The power which puts the landscape into motion is supplied by water motors hidden away under the toy.

An equally elaborate toy is the property of a wealthy retired army officer of Berlin, who is able by its means to enjoy within the security of his own home all the excitement of a campaign, says Tit-Bits. He has a fully-equipped army of many hundreds of soldiers—cavalry, infantry and batteries of artillery. Every incident of battle is reproduced with startling realism.

A Russian prince has a mechanical theater which has cost him over $30,000. The stage is fitted with every accessory in the shape of scenery and machinery that modern skill has devised, and the actors are figures as large as life, all dressed as sumptuously and appropriately as their living prototypes.

The prince's repertoire covers almost all the most popular operas, and it is only necessary to press a button to set the whole marvelous machinery in motion. The actors make their entry on the stage and play their various parts with appropriate gestures, while a number of phonographs supply the vocal part in the voices of the leading operatic singers.

Subsidence of the Bermudas.

According to the results of studies by Prof. A. E. Verrill the beautiful Bermuda islands are merely the remnant of an island, very much larger than the present entire group, but which has sunk in the ocean. The original island had an area of 300 or 400 square miles, whereas the Bermudas to-day are only about 20 square miles in area. Within a comparatively recent period, says Prof. Verrill, the Bermudas have subsided at least 80 or 100 feet. Their base is the summit of an ancient volcano, while their surface is composed of shell sand drifted into hills by the wind and consolidated by infiltration.—Youth's Companion.

Canada's Defense.

Canada is self-supporting, but in event of an attack being made upon the Dominion, Britain would have to provide both army and navy for its defense.—Albany Argus.

Twenty Miles for a Penny.

The Russian government has decided upon the introduction of specially cheap fares upon the Transsiberian railway in order to encourage emigration to the country. A ticket from Russia to Tobolsk only costs 4s 6d and from Tobolsk to any station whatever in Siberia the fare is only 9 shillings. Thus the tripper can cover over 6,000 miles for a matter of 13 shillings.—Stockholm Dagblad.

It Excites Suspicion.

There is such a thing as over caution that excites suspicion.—Atchison Globe.

ODDITIES ABOUT COLOR.

This Authority Says There Are Many Deadly Poisons That Are Decidedly Blue.

Did you ever notice that there is no blue food? We eat things green, and red, yellow and violet; flesh, fish or plants in all the colors of the rainbow except blue. Many deadly poisons are blue in color, such as bluestone or the deadly nightshade flower. The color stands in our slang for everything miserable and depressing. But this is only one of a thousand queer facts about colors. Heat a bar of iron and the particles of the metal are set in motion, shaking violently one against another. Presently the surrounding ether is set in motion in large, slow waves, rolling through the air like the waves of the sea, until they break upon our skin and give us the sensation of heat. As the iron gets hotter other waves are set in motion in lightning speed, and these break upon the eye, giving the sensation of red light, says the St. Louis Republic.

The red-hot iron, getting still more heated, throws out other sets of waves still smaller and more rapid—orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet, all the colors of the rainbow. The eye cannot tell one from another; the whole bundle of rays mixed up gives us an impression of white. That is the glow from the "white-hot" iron, and such is the light from the still greater brightness of the sun. Sunlight is a bundle of rays and light—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet all mixed together. The mixture of all colors is white light, the absence of all colors is utter darkness.

Now, pass a ray of sunlight through a drop of water, and the colored rays are split up and thrown in different directions. The sunlight shining through many drops of falling rain after a shower is all split up into colors, and the result is the gorgeous rainbow. The scattered spray of a sea wave, of a waterfall or a mountain, makes little rainbows, caused in the same way. Each kind of light has its own special uses. The red rays of light make the leaves of the trees to grow and hasten all rotting and decay. Moreover, if you cut off the red rays, plants will grow with golden-brown leaves instead of green.

The sea is blue because the water reflects the blue rays of light, but shallow seas are green, because the blue light is mixed with the yellow reflections from sand and stones at the bottom. In this green light of shallow water all seaweeds grow, and for want of the red rays they have golden and tawny leaves. Green and red seaweeds are as rare as blue tree leaves. At this vast land plants grown under green glass ought to turn golden brown, like seaweed. They do. Experiment has shown that under green glass plants grow nearly as well as under clear sunlight.

Under red glass nearly all plants grow four times as quickly as under white light, grow to four times their usual height and throw out a fine display of green leaves. This is clear proof that the red rays of sunlight cause the green leaves to grow. This discovery will be of immense help to gardeners who want to force their plants and to farmers trying to induce early crops of vegetables.

Blue glass has a directly opposite effect. Plants will neither grow nor die; they languish, and yet remain alive. The blue makes them sleep. The effect is exactly that of moonlight and starlight, when all plants take their natural rest.

The Sole Exception.

The New Lodger—Must look for another room. Mrs. Chamberhall. The noise in the neighborhood last night was simply unbearable! Three times was I awakened by the shrieks of some person in agony.

Mrs. Chamberhall—Oh, please do not be hasty. It is but one night in the week when the painless dentist keeps open.—Judge.

Referred to Madame.

"Can't you help me? I'm about to start a little store," said the female applicant for help.

"What kind of a store?" asked the busy man, stopping for a minute at his work.

"A notion store, sir."

"Oh, you'd better see my wife; her head is full of notions,"—Yonkers Statesman.

Rheumatism

Rheumatic pains are the cries of protest and distress from tortured muscles, aching joints and excited nerves. The blood has been poisoned by the accumulation of waste matter in the system, and can no longer supply the pure and health sustaining food they require. The whole system feels the effect of this acid poison; and not until the blood has been purified and brought back to a healthy condition will the aches and pains cease.

Mrs. James Kell, of 707 Ninth street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes as follows: "A few months ago I had an attack of Sciatic Rheumatism in its worst form. The pain was so intense that I became completely prostrated. The attack was an unusually severe one, and my condition was regarded as being very dangerous. I was attended by one of the most able doctors in Washington, who is also a member of the faculty of a leading medical college here. He told me to continue his prescriptions without receiving the slightest benefit. I declined to continue his treatment any longer. Having heard of S. S. Swift's specific recommended for Rheumatism, I decided almost at once to try it. I had no other medicine to try, and after I had taken a few bottles I was able to hobble around on crutches, and very soon thereafter had no use for them at all. S. S. Swift's cure me sound and well. All the distressing pains have left me, my appetite has returned, and I am able to be again restored to perfect health."

"The great vegetable purifier and tonic, is the ideal remedy in all rheumatic troubles. There are no opiates or minerals in it to disturb the digestion and lead to ruinous habits."

We have prepared a special book on Rheumatism which every sufferer from this painful disease should read. It is the most complete and interesting book of the kind in existence. It will be sent free to any one desiring it. Write our physicians fully and freely about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

COURSE OF THE RHINE.

The Source of the Devils River is Wrapped in Mystery, Says This Writer.

Augustine Birrell, late M. P., and author of "Obiter Dicta," etc., thus describes in Century the devious course of the Rhine:

"The birthplace of the Rhine is wrapped in mystery. It is given to few to tam with their fingers the first tricklings of a great river. How many English have traced the shy Thames to her source, or the Mersey? Research is apt to be tedious. To most of us, as to our artist, M. Andre Castaigne, the Rhine flows out of Constance lake, and after giving three leaps over the rocks at Schaffhausen steps westward with a cheerful alacrity, as if it meant, like a good American, to see Paris before it died, till it reaches Basel, where, as if suddenly mindful of the fatherland, it turns hastily to the right and pushes its way up the map of Europe past Strasbourg, Mannheim, Koblenz and Cologne, by Dusseldorf and Wesel till it reaches the low countries, where again its course becomes obscure, what happens to the Rhine at Utrecht? 'What gar my father no send me to Utrecht?' was the oft repeated complaint of Bartoline Saddletree, doomed to keep shop in the Bess Wynd instead of drawing pleas in Parliament square."

"I can but repeat Mr. Saddletree's plaint. Had my father sent me to Utrecht instead of Koblenz I might be an authority on the subject. As it is, I can but feebly denur to the notion that puts Rotterdam on the Rhine, but have to admit that, just as I have never set eyes on the Toma-See in Switzerland, where, at a height of well-nigh 8,000 feet, the baby Rhine springs into being, so have I never seen either of its outlets into the German ocean or the Zuyder Zee. My Rhine begins at Schaffhausen and gets no farther than Wesel, for as for Rotterdam, it is, as all the world knows, on the Maas, and as for Utrecht, where the river is said to divide, I was never sent there to study either law or geography."

His Rule of Action.

"John Henry," said Mrs. Bickers to her husband, "it is time we returned the Gilkinsons' call."

"I have no intention of returning it," said Mr. Bickers.

"Why not?"

"Because I believe in returning good for evil."—Detroit Free Press.
